Drought Aid Approved For Area Counties

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has granted haying and grazing privileges on land retired from production under government programs to eligible farmers in 59 additional Missouri counties, Missouri senators announced today.

The action was taken because of drought conditions. It increased to 71 the number of Missouri counties which have been granted the privileges.

Counties added: Andrew, Atchison, Barry, Barton, Buchanan, Caldwell, Camden, Carroll, Carter, Chariton, Christian, Clay, Clinton, Cooper, Daviess, Dekalb, Dent, Douglas, Gentry, Greene, Grundy, Harrison, Holt, Howard, Howell, Jackson, Jasper, Laclede, Lafayette, Lawrence, Lincoln, Linn, Livingston, Macon, Madison, McDonald, Mercer, Miller, Montgomery, Morgan, Newton, Oregon, Ozark, Pettis, Platte, Putnam, Ray, Reynolds, Ripley, Saline, Shelby, Ste. Genevieve, Stone, Sullivan, Taney, Texas, Webster, Worth and Wright.

Deepening Controversy In Congress

Reapportionment Ruling Threatened With Long Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was caught today in a deepening controversy over the Supreme Court's ruling that state legislatures must be reapportioned on a "one-man, one-vote" basis.

In the Senate, opponents of any delay in carrying out the court's ruling threaten drawn-out debate on a delaying proposal that Senate leaders want to attach to the foreign aid bill.

In the House, a tough new bill that would strip the federal courts of any jurisdiction over state reapportionment cases has suddenly been dumped on the speaker's table, where it is ticking like a time bomb.

The House bill, authored by Rep. William M. Tucker, D-Va., was sprung on the unsuspecting supporters of the court by Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., the chairman of the House Rules Committee. He won a 10-4 vote in his committee to send the bill to the House floor before his opponents had time to figure out what was happening.

By the time they did, the Tucker bill was in their laps, and after a close look at it, a lot of them have decided that the Senate proposal looks good.

Worked out by Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen in conjunction with the Justice Department, it would permit states to delay reapportionment until Jan. 1, 1966, "in the absence of highly unusual circumstances."

It was the addition of those last seven words to Dirksen's original proposal for an unconditional delay that triggered Smith's action on the Tucker bill.

Tucker's bill, which he called "a simple measure," has only two provisions. One says the Supreme Court shall no longer have the right to review state reapportionment cases coming from any federal court or state supreme court.

The other says the federal district courts shall have no jurisdiction over any state reapportionment cases.

In sending it to the House floor the Rules Committee resorted to a little-used procedure that permits it to take any bill away from a House legislative committee — in this case the Judiciary Committee.

Frondizi, deposed in March 1962, blamed the government of President Arturo Illia. The government declined comment.

Congo Rebels March

Paratroopers Arrive To Save Embassy

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Forty U. S. paratroopers sent here with 4 transport planes being supplied to the rebellion-plagued central Congo government arrived only a short time before a report that Mulele rebels were on the warpath today in the western Congo.

Messages reaching Leopoldville said 2,000 warriors of rebel leader Pierre Mulele were concentrated about 20 miles south of Kikwit, capital of Kwilu province 250 miles east of Leopoldville. They had been inactive for several months.

Mulele, 33, Peking-trained former Congolese education minister, began the series of rebellions which have been sweeping the Congo.

Reports Thursday indicated a general withdrawal of rebels in the eastern sections, but today a message from Bukavu, capital of the province of Central Kivu, said rebels were only 12 miles from the city and that there was panic.

Bukavu was the first target of the eastern rebels. Two armored scout cars were flown to Kivu Thursday. Two American T-28 trainer planes converted to carry rockets and machine guns have been blasting a rebel convoy on the road east of Bukavu.

Messages from Kikwit said Mulele's men were trying to drive missionaries from a region northeast of the Kwilu River. More than 100 missionaries and traders were taken out of the area during last January's violence, but many returned later.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — The second National Explorer Delegate conference next week will bring 1,000 Explorer Scouts to Lawrence. They are expected to arrive Sunday.

Similar Senate Action Expected Later Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise $4.4 billion public works appropriation bill was passed today by the House.

A similar action by the Senate, expected later in the day, will send the bill to the White House.

The measure appropriates money to the Atomic Energy Commission, the Army Engineers and the Reclamation Bureau.

Principal items were added by the Senate, and which remained in the bill, include $98 million for the Arkansas River Development program to keep work on a 9-foot navigation channel on schedule for a 1970 completion date.

Two changes were made in Kansas public works projects. The Senate had approved $3 million for construction of the Wilson Reservoir. The House today cut the figure to $2,900,000. The House cut out any appropriation for planning on the Cedar Point Reservoir.

The other appropriations for Kansas and Missouri projects were the same as that approved previously by the Senate. They were:

Missouri — Construction — Chariton River $650,000; Kaysinger Bluff $1,500,000; Kaysinger Bluff highway construction $1,000,000; Marion County Drainage District $764,000; Perry County Drainage Districts 1, 2 and 6 $596,000; South River Drain District $499,000; St. Louis $10,000,000; Stockton Reservoir $4,000,000.

Planning — Hannibal $155,000; Joanna Reservoir $434,000; Meramec Park Reservoir, $200,000.

Kansas — Construction — Council Grove Reservoir $688,000; Elk City Reservoir $7,500,000; John Redmond Reservoir $1,288,000; Lawrence $300,000; Marion Reservoir $3,000,000; Marysville $200,000; Milford Reservoir $16,000,000; Perry Reservoir $8,500,000; Topeka $4,500,000. Planning — Atchison $100,000; Big Hill Reservoir $100,000; Clinton Reservoir $240,000; Fort Scott Reservoir $100,000; Kansas City, Kan. $100,000; Melvern Reservoir $230,000; Merriam $40,000.

Third Night Of Violence In Paterson

Tension Appears To Be Subsiding; 23 Are Arrested

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — Gasoline bombs, bottles and bricks crashed in the streets of Paterson's Negro district for the third successive night, but city officials called the vandalism and disorder less serious.

In Elizabeth, police swinging nightsticks swept a street clear of hundreds of Negro and white youths at midnight after a police car was struck with a bottle. There too, on the third night of violence, authorities said tension appeared to be subsiding.

The pattern — three nights of violence in a row — matched that of recent racial rioting in Harlem, Brooklyn and Rochester, N.Y., and Jersey City.

Paterson police reported that between 50 and 60 incidents occurred Thursday night in and near the city's predominantly Negro Fourth Ward. They arrested 23 Negroes, one white man and a dozen juveniles. The unidentified white man allegedly was arrested with a bottle in his hand.

Three policemen and a teenager suffered minor injuries. A police car was "extensively damaged" by rocks and bricks, Mayor Frank X. Graves said.

Graves, who promised to meet street violence with total force, said late Thursday night: "I'm very encouraged at this point. I think they know we mean business — a year in jail for fooling around with a cop."

In Elizabeth, the midnight clash climaxed a night of milling in the streets of the city's multiracial Elizabethport district by Negroes and whites.

Shortly before midnight some 40 Negro youths began a march on one side of First Street, but they broke into a run when a white man in a telephone booth yelled, "Hey, get that boy in the gray jacket."

A bottle struck a police car; others smashed in the street.

The milling crowd of between 200 and 300 persons began running and shouting along several blocks.

Berlin Wall Violence On Anniversary

BERLIN — West Berliners observed an hour of silence Thursday on the third anniversary of the hated Communist wall. Then silence turned to violence as rioters surged to the barricade and attacked a Soviet army car.

"The wall must go," shouted the demonstrators.

Others sent a truck trailer smashing through barriers put up to keep West Berliners away from the wall between East and West Berlin.

West Berlin police, swinging clubs, dispersed the rock-throwing demonstrators. One leather jacketed youth was knocked to the ground, where he lay bleeding and unconscious.

The Soviet army car, containing at least one Soviet officer and a driver, was traveling back to East Berlin. It was attacked near the wall's Checkpoint Charlie, a crossing point for foreigners.

A mob of about 500 West Berliners surrounded the car and battered it with their fists and feet. It was heavily dented and a license plate was ripped off.

The Soviets stayed inside the car, which roared off into East Berlin after West Berlin police cleared a path through the jeering mob.

New Jersey Racial Strife

PATERSON, N.J. — Overwhelming police superiority subdues Negro youth late Thursday. Mayor Graves supervised some 200 helmeted patrolmen who stopped and searched Negroes on the streets as precautionary measure. A few gasoline bombs, rocks and bottles were thrown at police for the third consecutive night as 28 were arrested and four persons hurt.

Turks Face Shortage Of Bread

Kerosene Supply Dwindling For Turkish Cypriots

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkish Cypriot leader Dr. Fazil Kuchuk said today it is "only a matter of days" before his people will be without bread as a result of a Greek Cypriot blockade.

He called upon the Turkish government in Ankara to take immediate political steps to bring pressure on President Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot leader, to raise the blockade.

He told reporters bakeries will be forced to shut down in two days due to lack of kerosene for ovens in the Turkish quarter.

"Thirty-five thousand people will start to go hungry. We are bread eaters. Bread is necessary to us," he added. "We do not have communications everywhere and I am certain there are villages even now with absolutely nothing."

"Turkey must find the political means to raise the blockade — I am not asking for any attack."

He said he had communicated the situation fully to the Turkish government and awaited a reply.

Kuchuk charged Makarios "had attempted to subdue us with force and failed. He is now trying other means."

He said he could not predict what his followers might do if the blockade continued.

Kuchuk is spokesman for about 100,000 Turkish Cypriots — about one-fifth of the island's population.

The cease-fire brought about by the United Nations Security Council still is being observed by Greek and Turkish Cypriots today.

Burglary Charge Against Robertson

Homer R. Robertson, 20, 114 East Jackson, was charged Thursday afternoon with second degree burglary on a state warrant filed in Magistrate Court by Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax served the warrant on Robertson in the city jail where he had been held since about dawn Thursday after police arrested him inside Rissler's Tavern at Main and Osage.

Police were alerted by a passerby who observed some liquor outside the Osage Avenue entrance to the bar. Officers stationed themselves at all exits from the tavern and found Robertson inside.

Robertson is being held in the Pettis County jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

LEXINGTON, Mo. (AP) — James Dunn, 24, of Lexington, was killed and two other persons were injured in a head-on collision early today on U.S. 24, five miles west of here.

Injured were Robert Parker Jr., 23, of Lexington, a passenger in the Dunn vehicle, and Van Jackson, 35, of Kansas City, the driver of the other car.

Johnson Inks Federal Pay Increase Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed the federal pay-raise bill today and said it will enable the government to attract and keep employees of outstanding ability.

He said he already has signed 25 pieces of major legislation, and the pay-raise bill ranks near the top of the list in importance.

Johnson signed the bill in a ceremony in the White House flower garden attended by members of Congress whose committees handled the legislation, government officials, and labor leaders who supported it.

The measure gives a pay raise to members of Congress, judges, government officials and about 1.7 million other federal workers. The boost ranges from $100 a year for the lowest-ranking Civil Service or postal employee up to $10,000 a year for high officials.

It is estimated to add $558 million to the yearly federal civilian payroll which now runs about $15.5 billion.

Johnson lauded the bipartisanship displayed by Congress in passing the bill, as well as in enacting other legislation, saying the legislators put the country and the people first.

Johnson said the continuing goal of the government is to make federal salaries reasonably comparable to those of private industry.

For most of those covered the raises will show up on the next pay check — retroactive to July 1. Members of Congress will have to wait until next Jan. 1 to get their $7,500-a-year increases.

Ethan Shepley announced today he favors Campbell for the

Campbell, 45, told the Associated Press by telephone: "I will accept the state chairmanship and will begin actively seeking the post."

Selection of the new state chairman will be made Sept. 8 at the Republican State Committee meeting in Jefferson City.

Jones, who was elected chairman in 1963, is not actively seeking re-election, although he said he would accept another term.

It was learned that Jackson County GOP Chairman William O. Buffe of Kansas City has been campaigning in his area for Jones' re-election.

Shepley said many state GOP leaders favor Campbell's election.

Classify 232 Registrants For the Draft

Selective Service Board No. 84 classified 232 registrants at a board meeting Wednesday afternoon, according to Mrs. Verma E. Williams, clerk.

Some classifications were initial ones, some were renewals of previous classifications, while other men were reclassified according to new information or changes in their status, Mrs. Williams said.

A 2-S classification was given to the largest single group. This is a student deferment.

Last Jan. 5 President Johnson issued a directive that all registrants should be classified as soon as possible after they register at 18 years of age. Previously men were not classified until they had reached their 21st birthday.

Mrs. Williams said the Pettis County local board has more than 5,500 men registered. All of these are now classified, with the exception of a very few where additional information is needed.

The directive to classify all registrants did not change the system's policy of inducting the oldest 1-A men first, however. The age for induction is in the 21½ year group, even though 18-year-olds are being ordered for their physical examinations, Mrs. Williams pointed out.

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I do a good bit of entertaining at home and we are frequently invited to parties in the homes of our friends. After dinner the men go off by themselves to smoke and talk, and the women remain in the living room.

My husband always sticks with the girls and joins the conversation as if he were one of them. This embarrasses me so I can hardly hold my head up. If the conversation is about clothes he expresses his preferences and his pet hates. When the girls talk about cooking he chimes in with a few recipes of his own.

The last time he did this I was tempted to join the men, but I just couldn't do it. I decided not to make a fool of myself in an effort to teach my husband a lesson he might not get. There's nothing wrong with him—so don't get the idea that he is not normal. What should I do? — MARRIED TO ONE OF THE GIRLS.

Dear Married To: Don't try to shame your husband into joining the boys. It won't work. Instead tell him the presence of a lone male makes the girls uncomfortable, that even though he'd rather be with the ladies, as a matter of courtesy, he should go with the men.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife admits she hates housework. The appearance of our home is her best testimonial. She insists most modern women loathe housework because it is uncreative and that any dumb ox can clean a house.

She further insists it is easy for YOU to tell other women they owe it to their families to be good housekeepers because all YOUR housework is done by hired help.

How about it? Are you honest and courageous enough to answer in print?—BILL W. OF SYRACUSE, N.Y.

Dear Bill: Your wife is right about me. I don't do housework. I did do plenty of it, however,—including washing, ironing, from housework. If not, tell her—for the first ten years of my marriage.

Since we're letting our hair down, Buddy Boy, I'll tell you that my house was always in pretty good shape, the laundry looked presentable, and nobody ever died from my cooking.

I didn't hate housework, nor did I feel it was beneath my dignity. Although it didn't thrill me, I did it with pride—as part of my contribution to marriage.

At present I put in approximately 10 hours every day producing 365 Ann Landers columns a year. If your wife is putting out half as much energy on a career, she should be excused from housework. If not, tell her to quit beefing and clean up her house.

Dear Ann Landers: You were wrong when you advised the mother of that teen-age girl not to allow her to take a cross country trailer trip with her boy friend and his parents. We have been through it with our own teen-ager, and the results were wonderful. The kids ended up hating each other. There's nothing like day and night exposure to produce personality clashes, quarreling, and finally utter boredom. Our friends thought it was disgraceful when we permitted our 16-year-old daughter to invite her boy friend on a trailer trip. My husband and I talked it over and decided human nature being what it is, that the kids would get sick and tired of each other and it was worth the chance. So there you are.—WIZEAPPLE.

Dear Apple: Sorry, but I DON'T agree it is worth the chance. Human nature being what it is, your story might have had a different ending. My advice still stands.

Accidents

The condition of Lloyd Eugene "Gene" Schlup, 31, who was seriously injured Sunday afternoon, Aug. 2, when caught in a hay baler, is reported as being somewhat improved. The accident occurred at his farm, 3½ miles southwest of Latham.

His left arm was badly mangled as it was pulled into the baler between two rollers.

Schlup was endeavoring to make an adjustment on the baler when his hand was caught by the rollers and he was pulled to them. The fact the clutch on the machine had a tendency to slip, probably resulted in his not being fatally injured.

His father, Tony Schlup, was in the house and saw the accident which was in a field near the house. He rushed out and shut the machinery off. His son then instructed his father to try and back it off, but this was unsuccessful and assistance was called for.

A telephone operator began notifying neighbors who went to the farm to give assistance, among them was Earl H. McDonald, who resides north of Latham and who was accompanied by his brother-in-law, Russell Conn, Jr., 1318 South Quincy, and son Russell, III, who were visiting there.

Schlup was trapped for the better part of a half hour before he was freed. He was taken by car to California by Warren Pettigrew, a neighbor, and accompanied by the two Conns, who held his arm. In California he was given emergency treatment by Dr. R. B. Fuls, after which he was taken to the Memorial Hospital at Jefferson City in the Williams ambulance.

The elder Conn was able to stop the bleeding by holding his hand beneath the arm, while the younger Conn held the arm from dangling, and they accompanied Schlup on to the hospital.

At the hospital Dr. Stuart C. Exon attended Schlup. His condition was reported, Thursday night as being fair, and the arm had not been amputated.

A one-car accident about a mile east of Sedalia on U.S. Highway 50 resulted in extensive damage to a 1959 Ford sedan and minor injuries to the driver. The accident occurred about 3 p. m. Thursday.

Mrs. Alma Ruth Tomlinson, 42, 3201 South Kentucky, driver of the automobile, suffered a laceration across the nose. She was taken to the Bothwell Hospital by Trooper William Southwick of the State Highway Patrol who investigated the accident and then to the office of Dr. John Lamy who rendered medical treatment.

According to Trooper Southwick, Mrs. Tomlinson who was driving west on Highway 50 came upon a stopped automobile which was preparing to make a left turn on to a side road. Seeing she would be unable to stop or miss the car, Mrs. Tomlinson pulled to the right and left the highway.

The car passed between two trees then struck a telephone pole with the left front of the automobile.

The automobile was towed to Sedalia by Bacon's wrecker.

CONVENTIONS AND CRISES/ The Democrats

In the hectic, unsettled postwar year of 1948, some things could still be counted on—sunrises and sunsets, the Yankees taking the pennant, the GOP defeating the Democrats.

Well, maybe the Indians or the Red Sox would win this year, but everybody in his right mind knew that the Republicans could nominate a wax dummy and still beat Truman.

President Harry S. Truman would be the candidate of course, for what other Democrat had the nerve to run? The country was tired of the New Deal, or wars both hot and cold. They were waiting in line for new cars and houses and all the things they'd done without for years. They'd swept the Republicans into control of Congress in 1946 for the first time in 16 years.

Harry Truman was about the only man in the country who thought otherwise. Even if Henry Wallace, the 1940-44 vice president, had siren-songed the left-wingers away to form the Progressive Party, and even if the South bolted over civil rights, Truman knew, if no one else did, that the majority of people hadn't made up their minds by a long shot.

As expected, the big battle when the convention began in Philadelphia in July was over the strong civil rights plank the liberals wanted. The South made an unsuccessful attempt to have the old-two-thirds balloting rule reinstated. (Roosevelt had managed to get it dropped in 1936.)

When it became clear that they could not have their way, 35 southern delegates, true to the spirit of 1860, walked out. They later met in Birmingham to form the Dixiecrat Party and nominate Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina for president.

In Philadelphia, Truman won the nomination handily on the first ballot with 947 1/2 votes. Kentucky Sen. Alben Barkley was named his running mate.

by Don Oakley and Ed Kudlaty

Now ensued one of the hardest-hitting, one-man, give-'em-hell campaigns in American history. In 31,000 miles of travel and over 500 speeches, Truman told the people about his "Fair Deal." The Republican candidate, Thomas E. Dewey, hardly condescended to acknowledge that he was opposed at all.

On election night, the headlines were all set, the stories were all written; all that was needed was to fill in Dewey's vote totals.

But a strange thing happened. Although nobody knew anybody who actually voted for Truman, he won. Not only that, he won decisively, carrying 28 states to Dewey's 16. Thurmond took 4. Truman even presented the Democrats with control of Congress again.

Whatever they thought of the "Fair Deal," it appeared that the American people preferred spunk to platitudes.

McNeil went to Viet Nam in March. He was hit by a bullet while flying a mission and came home for 30 days before returning. It was then he had the interview with the Mount Pleasant Times.

wind tore the kite loose and Elgin fell awkwardly, head over heels.

He was rescued from the water by other members of an 11-man team which water skied 2,100 miles from St. Petersburg to put on the show.

Yankees Sold To CBS

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System formally announced today purchase of the New York Yankees in what could pave the way for revolutionary changes in the promotion of baseball.

Approval for entry of the television and radio network into direct ownership of baseball's dominant team of the last 40 years already has been given by three-fourths of the American League clubs.

One possibility of CBS ownership of the Yankees might be pay television in New York City, potentially the world's richest market.

The total assets of the Yankees were fixed at $14 million and CBS paid $11.2 million for an 80 per cent controlling interest with the right to purchase the balance within five years.

The effective date of the purchase will be Nov. 2.

Meanwhile, a storm of controversy swirled up both in baseball circles and in Congress.

Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics and Arthur C. Allyn, president of the Chicago White Sox, sharply criticized the handling of the sale.

In Washington, a well placed source said the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee would undoubtedly check to determine if there was anything about the sale that would merit second thoughts on pending legislation to exempt professional clubs from provisions of the Antitrust Act.

As owners of the Yanks, CBS presumably would gain full voting rights in American and major league matters.

That includes an upcoming Monday night television package deal during prime viewing time that could bring as much as $20 million. The network has not yet been selected. CBS, as owner of the Yankees, apparently would have equal voting rights with all other major league teams.

American League President Joe Cronin, who announced from Boston Thursday night that the necessary three-fourths of the league owners had approved the sale of 80 per cent of the Yankees, emphasized, however, that:

"The American League was advised that if approval was granted the Yankees will be a separate entity and an autonomous organization independent of CBS with Dan Topping as president and other members of the organization continuing to formulate policy and to manage the Yankee organization."

The announcement brought heated, bitter retorts from Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, and Chicago White Sox' President Arthur C. Allyn, who raised the question of "the potential ramifications of a national radio and television network controlling a major league club."

"We should know thoroughly what effect such a marriage will be. Dan Topping and Del Webb (co-owners of the Yankees) now have a contract with CBS. That network owns 80 per cent of the club with Topping and Webb each 10 per cent," Allyn said.

"The matter was not brought up at the joint meeting of the major Tuesday or at our league meeting Monday. But we knew it had been, or was, under discussion between Cronin and the interested parties."

"I think it was a hurry up job. I don't like it a damn bit. It is a sloppy way to run the league."

"This is a hell of a lousy way to run the American League," Finley said. "When the baseball fans of America see the way things are ramrodded, I fear many of them will change their allegiance to the National League."

"The whole thing is indicative of the shenanigans pulled in the American League by Cronin."

Cronin said a telegraphic poll of the league owners was taken at the request of the Yankees and that any announcement of the sale must come from the club.

A team spokesman, however, passed the ball to CBS and said any statement must come from the network. The network declined immediate comment, but indicated that a formal statement was expected this afternoon.

Webb and Topping, along with Larry MacPhail, bought the Yankees in 1945 for a reported $2.8 million. MacPhail resigned as president two years later and Webb and Topping bought his interest for $2. The Stadium and grounds later were sold and now are owned by Rice University and the Knights of Columbus.

The Yankees, excluding the stadium and grounds, now are estimated to be valued between $10 and $15 million.

A key factor in the transaction and, obviously, in the thinking of both Allyn and Finley, is the position CBS gains in relation to the majors' dealings with television, an increasingly important factor.

Part of that is the new Monday night package which was announced last Monday at the major leagues' meetings in Chicago.

John Fetzer, president of the Detroit Tigers and chairman of the majors' television committee, said plans had been approved to televise one game each Monday night in 1965 with the proceeds to be divided equally among the 20 major league teams.

Major league baseball teams negotiate their own seasonal television and broadcast rights, as opposed to the National and American Football Leagues, which sell their rights as a package.

CBS recently purchased the television rights for the 1964 and 1965 NFL regular season games for a whopping $28.2 million and, in a separate deal gained rights to the NFL playoff game for 1964 and 1965 at $1.8 million a game.

YOGI BERRA looks at the paper but makes no comment as officials of both the Yankees and CBS also decline comment. However, American League President Joe Cronin announced from Boston that majority ownership of the New York Yankees, baseball's greatest dynasty, had passed into the hands of the Columbia Broadcasting System in a move that was immediately attacked by two league club owners who criticized the fast, "high-handed manner" in which the sale was completed. Former majority owners Dan Topping and Del Webb retained 20 per cent with 80 per cent going to CBS. (UPI Telephoto)

Cards, A's Both Relax Thursday

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The writing on the wall above the locker of Bill White of the St. Louis Cardinals reads:

"Right elbow straight out from body. . . line up knuckles. . . spread stance comfortably. . . keep right relaxer turned to pitcher. . . RELAX."

It's a wonder opposing pitchers don't sneak in and erase it before White rubs them out.

The powerful first baseman, whose average fell below .250 in late June, has hit in 20 straight games for a .469 clip, raising his once anemic average to .310. He hit .362 during July, including six home runs and 23 runs batted in.

"When Bill's hitting," said former teammate Larry Jackson, now pitching for the Chicago Cubs, "everything you throw up there he'll hit good."

But before July, the Cardinals and White, 30, were beginning to wonder if he would ever start hitting.

"Sure I worried about it," said the former pre-med student at Hiram College, where he was graduated. "I worry about winning and my helping the team win. My job is to drive in runs and I wasn't doing it."

Was it a bad shoulder that bothered him?

"The pitchers bothered me, not the shoulder," he said, refusing to alibi.

But a healed shoulder and a new bat seem to have made a difference. White switched to teammate Carl Warwick's lighter bat 29 games ago hitting .260.

"I had a bat I just couldn't handle for some reason," he said.

"And now I've got a reminder above my locker to make sure I swing properly."

"I've had long bad streaks before—I was down to .192 two or three years ago after two months of the season — and I finished OK."

"Streak hitter? Yeah, they call me a streak hitter. I've been on a month and one-half streak."

And pitchers, take note White

Cards Down 'Bugs In Chic League Test

In a four-inning chic league contest Thursday night at Liberty Park, the Cardinals downed the Ladybugs, 23-20, in the chic league of the girls' Khoury softball league.

One homer was seen by Patricia Hewett for the Ladybugs with one on.

Sherry Sanders took the loss for the Ladybugs with two strike outs. Susan Barnes was the winning pitcher for the Cardinals, fanning seven Ladybug batters.

indicated this "streak" is not finished.

"I still think I can get 100 RBI," he said.

His recent surge has given him 61 with 51 games left. But White would have to drive in 110 runs to continue the steady improvement he has shown since coming to St. Louis from San Francisco in 1959.

Scores 10th Win

Roberts a Key To Ball Clubs

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Robin Roberts, sold by the Phillies as over the hill and released by the Yankees without a look, could be a key man in the future of each of those ball clubs.

The 37-year-old right-hander scored his 10th victory of the year Thursday night, a four-hit effort over seven innings in a 7-1 triumph over Boston that put his Baltimore Orioles in excellent shape for the crucial series with the New York Yankees starting tonight.

The victory increased Baltimore's American League lead to three full games — its biggest in a month — and, at this stage of the season, made a Baltimore-Philadelphia World Series increasingly likely.

The Phillies, for whom Roberts won 230 games in 14 seasons, dropped a 3-1 decision to Chicago in the only National League game scheduled but were still 3½ games ahead of the pack, a hard-to-catch lead at this stage of the season.

Minnesota whipped Detroit 6-3 and the New York Yankees stayed within 3½ games of Baltimore with a 5-2 edge over second-place Chicago in the only other games on the major league schedule.

The victory concluded an unhappily important home stand for the Yankees in which they:

1. Lost a share of the league lead when they dropped a four-game set to Baltimore, three games to one.

2. Salvaged only two games out of four from Chicago, a team they had beaten 10 straight this season.

Now they head to Baltimore for three games, the final three of the season with the league leaders and the Orioles anxious for the chance to provide the coup de grace.

Roberts set it up last night. Pitching with only three days rest, he limited Boston to four hits in seven innings, had a 7-1 lead and retired in favor of Stu Miller.

He was staked to a five-run lead in the first inning by Brooks Robinson's three run homer, a run-producing error by Carl Yastrzemski and Norm Siebern's run-scoring single. A double by Ed Bressoud and Russ Nixon's single in the fifth produced the only Boston run.

The Yankees closed to within a half game of Chicago when Elston Howard's two-out, two-on homer in the eighth broke a 2-2 tie and provided the Yanks with a split in the four-game set with the White Sox. Al Downing won his 10th and Gary Peters went the distance in losing.

Minnesota rammed in five runs in the first inning against Detroit's Dave Wickersham and coasted in from there, aided by Tony Oliva's 27th homer in the second.

Rotary "C" defeated Elks "C" and took first place in the competition Thursday evening. Ehlers pitched the winning game for Rotary and Perry and Pettit took the loss for the Elks.

Three-Way AL Pennant Race Shifts

BALTIMORE (AP) — Head-to-head competition in the three-way American League pennant race shifts to Baltimore tonight for the season's final series between the league-leading Orioles and the New York Yankees.

The Orioles moved into a three-game lead during the past week by taking three of four from the Yanks and sweeping three straight from the Boston Red Sox.

The runner-up Chicago White Sox lead the Yanks by only one-half game after splitting four games with the perennial champions.

Steve Barber, a Yankee killer with a disappointing 7-8 season record, will pitch the opener for the Orioles in a three-game set likely to draw record crowds to Memorial Stadium.

Yankee pitching plans were scrambled a bit because of the Chicago set. Roland Sheldon (3-1) or Steve Hamilton (7-1) were listed as probable starters tonight, although Whitey Ford (12-4) may get the nod if his ailing hip feels better.

Manager Hank Bauer of the Orioles has a well-rested bullpen ready for the Yanks. Dick Hall, an old Yankee nemesis, hasn't pitched for three days, Dave Vineyard has had four days of rest, Harvey Haddix and Frank Bertina five days, and Stu Miller has pitched four innings in 13 days.

Baltimore, with a 9-6 bulge in the season series with New York, has a 57-56 mark against the Yanks during the past six years — easily the best all-time New York record in the league.

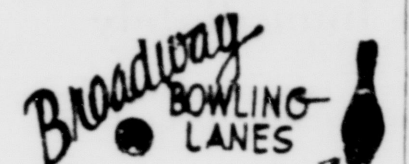

Valley Open Begins

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Missouri Valley Open tennis tournament started today with 50 men entered in the singles.

Gene Land of Muskogee, Okla. was seeded No. 1 and Steve Wilkinson of Sioux City, Iowa, the defending champion, was seeded second.

Connie Cristler of Mission, Kan., is expected to win the women's championship for the fourth time.

The tournament will end Sunday.

New Champ Assured In Girls Golf

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — Three semifinalists from last year's tournament were swept out of the USGA National Junior Girls golf tourney Thursday and a new champion is assured.

Today's semifinals matches Lou Dill of Deer Park, Tex., against Peggy Conley of Spokane, Wash., and Laura MacIvor of Fort Walton Beach, Fla. against Linda Morris, Orlando Beach, Fla.

Miss Dill, in her first national tournament, eliminated the defending champion, Janis Ferraris of San Francisco, 1 up in Thursday's quarter-finals with excellent chipping and putting on the last three holes. Miss Dill was one hole behind at the 15th, but squared the match on the 16th and clinched the last two with fine putts.

Miss Conley, runner-up last year, was the only 1963 semifinalist to survive the round. She beat Jacqueline Fladoos of Dubuque, Iowa, 3 and 2.

Miss MacIvor defeated Roberta Albers of Tampa, Fla., 5 and 3, and Miss Morris ousted Jackie Evans of Topeka, Kan., 3 and 2.

Miss Evans, 14, holder of the Kansas junior title twice and the 1963 state women's crown, lost the first two holes. She caught up on the 10th, but bogeys and double bogeys spelled her downfall thereafter. She attributed her trouble to swaying on her swings.

Cincy Reds Prepare For Road Trip

CINCINNATI (AP) — Coach Dick Sisler, taking over for ailing Manager Fred Hutchinson just before the Cincinnati Reds leave on a road trip, says the players "realize they are up against it" as far as their pennant hopes are concerned.

The third-place Reds trail league-leading Philadelphia by six games as they leave today for a tour that will take them to Houston, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

"Besides, the best medicine for him (Hutch) is for us to keep on winning."

Hutchinson is battling a chest cancer that was discovered last January. The 45-year-old manager of the Reds has undergone several examinations since the baseball season began, and recently spent a week in Christ Hospital while Sisler ran the team. The results of the tests have not been announced.

The Reds granted Hutchinson a leave of absence for the duration of the road trip Thursday.

The decision was announced at a hastily-called news conference where Hutchinson told newsmen:

"I have been experiencing some pain in my back and I feel that this trip, so very important to the club, would be too taxing on me."

"I feel that this leave of absence will benefit the club and everyone concerned."

Hutchinson said he hoped to be able to return to his job when the team comes back to Cincinnati Aug. 23.

And Yours? Medium or Rare?

The aroma from juicy steaks broiling on charcoal grills in Sedalia this summer indicates not too many outdoor chefs and gourmets were much concerned about carcinogenic factors in the meat.

Early in the spring mention was made here that a private consultant had revealed there is a very high concentration of carcinogenic materials in steak broiled in the charcoal manner. Implied was a warning of danger of cancer emanating from the smoke.

Although this created quite a bit of conversation at a time when cigars were being branded as a health hazard, the steak eaters did not panic.

It's just as well that they remained steadfast in continuing their culinary purposes this season. Because now comes Dr. Philip L. White, secretary of the American Medical Association Council on Foods and Nutrition who says there are no ill effects from charcoal broiled foods. In the AMA magazine he explains that smoke which arises when drippings hit live charcoal used in outdoor grills is primarily from incompletely combusted fat.

"It is called thermal decomposition because fats begin to break down at temperatures under those required for ignition. The same thing happens when frying fat begins to smoke when overheated," he explains.

For the benefit of any worried Central Missouri grillers, hear what Dr. White has to say further: "It has been shown that fat, which is partially decomposed by heat, produces substances suspected of being hazardous. However, no incidences of harm traceable to food have been reported in man. For that matter, research with appropriate animals likewise has failed to demonstrate any hazard."

Every chef seems to have his own style of cooking. We've seen some of them put the hot flame to the meat. Here is what Dr. White suggests: "Meat should be cooked by heat from the coals, not the flame. Any blaze should be quickly extinguished by water. Coals should be spaced so that no two touch; thus adequate room is provided for fat to drip without coming into contact with coals. Ideally a drip pan should be used."

Some of us will have a little trouble figuring out how to use a drip pan under a steak, but it really is effective when using the motor-activated spit or its attachments.

Whatever method one uses in charcoal grilling meat, isn't it a relief to know now there is an optimistic interpretation to researchers' opinions about the carcinogenic factors?

Turks Used New Fighters From U. S.

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — There are two inside facts about the threatened war over Cyprus which put our military aid program in an ironic light.

FACT NO. 1 is that the United States had just delivered the F-104 jets to Turkey which the Turkish Air Force turned round and used to strafe Cyprus.

FACT NO. 2 is that when the United States screamed in protest against the use of these planes, the Turks blandly replied that their air mission over Cyprus was no different from our raid over North Viet Nam. Since we had set the precedent, they felt entitled to follow it.

The F-104's which we had just delivered to Turkey are among the fastest fighters the U.S. Air Force has developed. They fly two or three times the speed of sound. The Turks were recently sent about 12 of these. The Greeks have only half that number. The bulk of the Greek Air Force is made up of F-84's which are not supersonic and which are model T's compared to the F-104's or the F-86's, the latter also supersonic.

The Turks have about 150 F-86's, while the Greeks have about the same number of F-84's, which gives the Turks great superiority in the air. With these fast fighters, especially the brand new F-104's, the Turks could shoot the Greeks out of the sky, which is probably one reason the Greeks have been more reasonable than the Turks in the last few days, though they were more difficult when Premiers Popandrou and Inonu were here in June.

Friends In Running For Veep Nod

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—By an unusual twist, two long-time political comrades-in-arms and personal friends have been thrown into the roles of front-runners for the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

Minnesota's Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, 53, and Eugene J. McCarthy, 48, may find the roles a bit uncomfortable but they are carrying them through with good humor and grace as the time for a choice nears. President Johnson, who will select the man for the No. 2 spot on the ticket, has not pointed a finger at either Minnesotan.

His choice may turn out to be someone else.

But Johnson's high regard for Humphrey and McCarthy has been voiced so often that speculation inevitably centered on them once the President eliminated Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and several other possibilities.

The two senators remain on the best of terms and continue to match their votes on almost every issue as the 1964 session grinds to an end.

Both will be delegates from Minnesota to the Atlantic City convention with opens Aug. 24.

They even are able to kid about their predicament, as they did at a fund-raising dinner for McCarthy earlier in the year. McCarthy is a candidate for re-election to the Senate this fall.

Humphrey served as chairman for the dinner, which attracted Johnson and an unusual number of other top figures in the party.

Humphrey recalled there had been discussion in Congress of a constitutional amendment to provide for two vice presidents, and said that McCarthy had told him: "Hubert, don't be so downcast. When that constitutional amendment comes up taking care of Adlai (Stevenson) and me, we're going to amend it to provide for three vice presidents. We think there should be somebody who just travels around and has a good time."

"I want you to know, Gene, I accept," Humphrey replied.

At that dinner, incidentally, Johnson termed McCarthy "one of the greatest men in public life." But he was generous in praise of Humphrey then and on occasions.

Humphrey and McCarthy began to build their political careers as youthful idealists after World War II in the battle to mold a new liberal party in Minnesota from Democratic and Farm-Labor elements. Both entered politics from college teaching. Humphrey became mayor of Minneapolis.

In 1948, both defeated Republicans to win places in Congress and came to Washington, Humphrey as a senator and McCarthy as a House member.

When McCarthy decided to move over to the Senate in 1958, Humphrey campaigned for him all over the state. McCarthy has reciprocated in Humphrey's races.

Both senators are alike in their views on political questions and both are excellent speakers, although they differ sharply in style.

Humphrey is bouncy, vibrant, full of his subject, and his range of subjects is inexhaustible. McCarthy is much quieter, apt to use wit and irony; but he can be powerful, as his impressive nominating speech for Stevenson at the 1960 Los Angeles Democratic convention showed.

Senate friends of the two men size up their chances in the vice presidential contest this way:

Humphrey is better known nationally and to Democratic politicians. He appears to have support of more party leaders and stands far higher in polls.

Johnson might well select him for this standing, for his broad knowledge of public affairs, his energy and zest, and his proven ability as a campaigner.

McCarthy is a bit more of a Johnson protégé, a graceful and attractive figure whose Roman Catholic faith might strengthen the ticket among some ethnic groups. He has more Southern support.

Johnson might decide he would prefer a running mate not quite so apt to be bursting with ideas and so ebullient.

Cromley In South Viet Nam

We Can Win The War And Lose The Country

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — We can win the military war in South Viet Nam and lose the country.

That is the conviction I have brought back with me after an intensive tour of the war-torn land which included 120 interviews with tough fighting Viet Cong, Vietnamese, American military and political officers, and village and hamlet chiefs.

I spent two weeks getting these firsthand views in critical areas of the country.

The crucial problem is this: I've gone into hamlet after hamlet and asked where the young men are. I've been told they're with the Viet Cong.

The Viet Cong strategy is to take over the countryside and isolate the cities. In major areas south of Saigon they have already done this.

The South Viet Nam government controls the provincial and district capitals and narrow strips along major highways. The government can clear main roads every morning. The Communists come back at night.

In the hamlets, where most of the people of South Viet Nam live, the Communists have almost a monopoly on propaganda and politics. In that vacuum, the Red propaganda line wins.

Government political parties have little membership outside of Saigon and a few major cities. In many parts of the south, local officials have no real contact with the people except to collect taxes or round up conscripts for the army.

The ruling South Viet Nam government group in Saigon is military. All province governors are military men except one. The provinces are divided into districts, which are headed by military officers. Most of South Viet Nam's people are farmers. They are suspicious of military men.

Village and hamlet government is weak. By a highly selective process of killing or intimidating the small number of effective village and hamlet chiefs, the Viet Cong have made local government even weaker.

In districts I visited where local officials are weak, corrupt or indifferent, farmers don't cooperate with the government and the local militiamen won't fight. These districts are widespread.

In other districts where the Saigon government has sent in strong, graft-busting officials, the citizens sabotage the Communists and the local militiamen fight. But there are few of these districts.

The importance of men and arms brought down from North Viet Nam for use in the war in the south has been seriously underestimated by U.S. military authorities.

Because of the importance of this traffic, the U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam naval facilities (which came while I was traveling on the remote Viet Nam-Cambodia border) had an excellent effect on the Vietnamese. It showed that the U.S. meant business. Many Vietnamese had begun to doubt our determination. The U.S. action was dramatic and positive. But the war still has to be won in the south. We're not winning.

The situation is far from hopeless. High and low Vietnamese officials, army officers and private citizens — speaking with amazing candor—have outlined at length for me the mistakes they and their colleagues are making, why these mistakes are being made and what they propose to do about them.

They were harsher on themselves than any people I've ever talked to.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

At Hint of Fainting Lie Down Immediately

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.,
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Fainting is not as common as it was 60 or 70 years ago. This is partly because it has gone out of fashion and partly because women wear less constricting clothes and keep themselves physically more fit.

When you see someone faint nowadays it is more often a husky male who, in a misguided effort to be brave, ignores such warning signs as lightheadedness, nausea or sudden dizziness.

Simple fainting never occurs in a person who is lying down and rarely in a person who is sitting. When consciousness is lost in these positions it is due to some serious injury associated with severe blood loss, extreme pain or damage to an internal organ.

These conditions require emergency treatment by a doctor whereas simple fainting is a temporary condition that is harmless unless the victim falls and strikes his head. When a person faints and assumes a horizontal position there is usually a prompt return of consciousness without any special treatment.

The cause of simple fainting is failure of sufficient blood to reach the brain. It may be triggered by such things as the sight of blood, the prick of a hypodermic needle, or standing motionless as soldiers are frequently required to do. Standing is most likely to cause fainting on a hot day or in a warm stuffy room. A long distance runner may faint from exhaustion or a person may faint on hearing of a death in the family.

One of the commonest causes of fainting is getting up out of bed suddenly, especially after a long illness or when in a weakened condition. The modern practice of getting up a day or two after an operation has done much to prevent this type of fainting.

The most important item of treatment is to lie down at the first hint of lightheadedness even if you are in a public place. It doesn't look nearly as silly to lie down on the sidewalk as it does to fall and have to have stitches taken. And if you must stand still for a long time you can prevent fainting by continuously wiggling your toes.

If someone else has fainted, don't throw water in his face—he may inhale some and have a bad fit of choking.

Smelling salts, too, are a waste of time. Recovery is both prompt and spontaneous. When the victim has revived sufficiently that he feels like getting up, he should walk around a bit to get his circulation working.

Dress Belt Getting Tight?

By Polly Cramer
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY — Most of us find that our belts occasionally seem too tight. After buying a new dress, I always open the buckle end of the belt and insert a piece of elastic one inch long and about the width of the belt. This will not show after the belt is fastened and it always fits well. Of course, use white elastic on pastel colors and black on darker colors. Puncture a hole in the elastic, slip the buckle through as though the elastic were the belt material and sew one end to the belt. — KATHRYN

DEAR POLLY — Both the credit and the Polly Dollar for my hint must be passed on to my neighbor. To avoid getting holes in plaster walls when hanging tie-back curtains, cut a large cork in half and glue a half of it on each side of the window at the desired height. The thumbtacks or pins can be easily pushed into the corks. My neighbor's corks have been intact for seven years, have been painted the color of the walls and are not noticeable. — MRS. R. R. Y.

DEAR POLLY — Do any readers know what to do about yellow spots on a refrigerator? Ours is only two years old and has turned yellow in places. I would be glad to try out any suggestions anyone has for getting it white. — MRS. C. D.

GIRLS and Mrs. C. D. — Have you contacted the manufacturer to ask their suggestions? I certainly would. Betty, my right hand helper, suggests that you try using liquid car wax as she still thinks it is best for keeping appliances white. — POLLY

Guard Unit Reports On Camp Events

Battery "C," First Howitzer Battalion, 128th Artillery, Missouri Army National Guard, Sedalia, completed its first week of National Guard summer camp Saturday, Aug. 8, which was marked with a parade in which all batteries participated before the visiting dignitaries.

The week had been a full one with five days of field training in which the troops were out overnight firing for four nights. The firing record of Sedalia "C" Battery was quite impressive with Sgt. George Boland of Sedalia and Sgt. Jack Stuart demonstrated considerable efficiency at their jobs. The fire direction control section under Terry Howes and SP5 Karl Kasak worked hard transforming commands from the observers to commands which the guns could follow to obtain the greatest accuracy possible. SP4 Charles Dougherty and SP4 Robert Mason completed this particular section.

Mess Sgt. David Menefee and his section have kept the men well fed both in the confinement and in the field. This is a feat that is well worthy of mention since it is their duty to appease appetites during a 12-18 hour day.

Thus far "C" Battery's record in the field has been very good and their ranking at this point high in the battalion.

This week has been marked with daily firing but no night encampment in the field and Wednesday was the last day of training. After clean up and general maintenance Thursday the battery will leave for home early Friday morning.

Appeal To Red Leader

Cyprus Raids Defended By Ismet Inonu

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Premier Ismet Inonu defended the weekend air raids on Cyprus in a message to Soviet Premier Khrushchev Thursday and asked the Soviet leader to use his influence to steer the Cyprus government into a course more "legal, humane and peaceful."

A Foreign Ministry spokesman warned that 12,000 Greeks still living in Istanbul will be deported unless Greece drops its all-out support of Greek Cypriot President Archbishop Makarios and some solution of the Cyprus crisis is reached through negotiations.

"Everything depends on the attitude of the Greek government," he said.

The spokesman, Ismael Soyas, told newsmen there is some hope of direct talks between Turkey and Greece, as requested Monday by Inonu in a message to Greece's Premier George Papandreu. But he hinted at a five-week deadline.

He said that, if the stalemate continues, mass deportations will start after Sep. 15. Turkey has abrogated, effective on that date, a 1930 agreement under which Greeks have been authorized to live in Turkey. They are influential in professional and business affairs.

"About 1,000 Greeks have been deported because of the bad atmosphere over Cyprus," Soyas said. "It will go on. It is not a bluff."

Inonu's message to Khrushchev was in response to the Soviet premier's appeal to Turkey last Sunday to halt the air raids on Greek Cypriots attacking Turkish Cypriot positions on the island's northwest coast.

The Turkish premier suggested the appeal should have been addressed to the Greek Cypriot leaders who ordered the offensive. He reiterated the Turks' view that the strafing and bombing attacks were a limited police action to protect the Cypriots of Turkish blood.

Turkish Cypriot irregulars and Makarios' Greek Cypriot troops continued to hold their positions in the Kokkina area under a U.N. sponsored ceasefire.

Green Ridge Bank Sale Negotiated

Negotiations for the sale of the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Green Ridge are in progress, it was reported Thursday.

A contract, it was reported, has been signed, which if all terms are met, would transfer control of the bank Nov. 1 to Charles Jones of Climax Springs, Miss. Flora Rotermund of Lincoln, L. H. Martin and Woodrow Ferguson, both of Warsaw.

James Labahn would sell his stock in the Green Ridge bank under the terms of the contract, it was stated.

Jones is cashier of the Citizens Bank of Climax Springs.

James F. Labahn, Route 4, Sedalia, who is president of the bank, it was reported will remain as president of the bank and would be the operating officer, in accordance with the contract.

Labahn is on vacation in Colorado and could not be contacted for a statement regarding the sale.

REPAIRS TO TRACK — Workmen rush repairs on the 200-foot section ripped out of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad tracks one and a half miles east of Fremont, Neb., by a Chicago-bound 80-car freight Thursday. Appar-

Inmate Walks Away

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — A U.S. Penitentiary inmate walked away from a work detail outside the walls Thursday.

The warden's office identified him as Robert Michael Rimanich, 37, Chicago, serving five years from Illinois for bank robbery.

Court Fight For Negro Delegates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of a predominantly Negro group seeking to be seated as the Mississippi delegation to the Democratic National Convention said Thursday they'll go ahead with their fight despite a state court ruling aimed at the group.

The fight, which could be the hottest of the convention, revolves around the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party, which is challenging the all-white delegation from the state's regular Democratic party.

Chancery Judge Stokes Robertson Jr. issued an injunction in Jackson, Miss., on Wednesday barring the insurgent group from acting under the name "Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party."

State Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson had asked the order, arguing that the group could not appropriate the name Democratic, which already is used by the regular party.

Joseph L. Rauh Jr., Washington attorney representing the Freedom Democrats, said Thursday the court ruling makes no difference in his plans to challenge the regular Democrats before the convention Credentials Committee, and, if necessary, on the convention floor.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey said Thursday he will recommend that the party's national committee seat neither of the contesting delegations on the temporary roll, leaving it up to the Credentials Committee to settle.

Rauh, a delegate from the District of Columbia and a member of the Credentials Committee, said he considers Bailey's decision a victory for the insurgent group. But he made it plain that he will try to force a floor fight if the Credentials Committee rejects the largely Negro group.

Some party and White House officials are hoping to head off a floor fight over an issue most observers believe might prove embarrassing to President Johnson.

Announced By UAW

Strike Vote Is Scheduled At GM

DETROIT (AP) — Scheduling of a strike vote by some 354,000 hourly rated employees at General Motors was announced Thursday by the United Auto Workers Union.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW vice president, said telegrams were sent Wednesday night to all units ordering that the strike vote be completed before Aug. 31, when the union's contract with GM expires.

UAW agreements with Ford and Chrysler also run out at the end of the month, and a union spokesman said they also had been advised earlier to get machinery for a strike vote into motion by Aug. 17.

Negotiations between the UAW and the auto industry's Big Three have entered their seventh week. Talks with American Motors are in recess until Aug. 19. The AMC contract runs until Oct. 15.

In the telegram to GM units, the UAW said General Motors "has made no movement at the national level."

"It has not indicated any date at which the union may expect counterproposals," the wire added.

"In view of the shortness of time remaining, it is essential that all local unions and units schedule strike votes to be completed prior to Aug. 31."

Calling of a strike vote is considered a routine move in most auto labor negotiations.

In 1961, the UAW agreed to extend its contract at GM for a week. It acted on an appeal by William Simkin, federal mediator, whose request for more time came as the union's top officials gathered on the night of Aug. 29 to set up strike machinery.

Although agreement on a national economic package was reached at 4 a.m., Sept. 6, six hours before the strike deadline, wildcat walkouts developed around the country.

Within two days, six GM plants were shut and 12,800 idled.

Not until Sept. 22 were all outstanding local grievances washed out, and GM went back into full production.

The UAW called a nationwide strike against Ford 11 days later, and the company was crippled for two weeks before national and local disagreements were settled.

Henry Ford II, chairman of the board, has declared that the company is willing to accept a strike this year if necessary to hold down inflationary trends.

The union's chief demands this year center on improved working conditions and earlier retirements.

Minutemen Join NRA To Obtain Guns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., said Thursday thousands of rightwing minutemen have joined the National Rifle Association to obtain low-cost guns and free ammunition from the U. S. Army.

Gonzalez made the accusation in a statement inserted in the Congressional Record. He appended a defense by the Army of its program, but he could not accept the defense.

Under its civilian marksmanship program, the Army sells guns at cost to members of the private NRA, which says it is an organization of sportsmen and gun collectors. The Army, under the same program, also supplies free ammunition to gun clubs affiliated with the NRA.

Gonzalez said much of this is going to the Minutemen, a military organization that trains its members in guerrilla warfare to fight communism in the United States.

Its national coordinator was listed as Robert B. De Paugh of Norborne, Mo.

Maj. Gen. F.W. Boye Jr., the Army's chief of legislative liaison, wrote Gonzalez, "I can assure you that these programs are conducted with full realization of our responsibilities to insure that arms and ammunition do not fall into unscrupulous hands."

But Gonzalez said, "The federal government has no way in the world of knowing who the 400,000 persons receiving free guns and ammunition are or what they are doing with their military aid."

River Shipping Up

OMAHA (AP) — Maj. Gen. George Walker says Missouri River shipping is up 17 per cent this year.

Walker, Missouri River Army Engineer, told a Chamber of Commerce banquet Wednesday night that shipping on the river thus far this year has totaled 1.6 million tons.

Last year, when Missouri River barges carried record tonnage, only 1,194,374 tons had moved on the river by Aug. 10.

Operation To Trap Viet Cong Guerrillas Fizzles

Troops Locate Two Camps, Both Vacant And Burned

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Government efforts to trap 2,000 or more Viet Cong guerrillas through one of the war's biggest airborne operations appeared Thursday to have fizzled.

A regiment of Vietnamese troops—ferried by 96 helicopters Wednesday into jungle positions 30 miles northwest of Saigon against ground fire that killed a U.S. pilot—found the Red enemy had fled.

The troops located two Communist camps, both vacant and burned; tunnels, booby traps and old emplacements. They found several rifles and the bodies of four guerrillas.

Viet Cong agents in the past week distributed leaflets saying the guerrillas would no longer fight government troops as such, but would attack only those units accompanied by U.S. advisers.

The withdrawal could have been intended to contribute to this effort to drive a psychological wedge between the Vietnamese soldiers and their American allies.

But no one in authority believes the Viet Cong intend to cut down the scope of their operations. And a Viet Cong attack on a fortified hamlet near Phan Thiet, a coastal town 100 miles east of Saigon, reinforced that belief.

The government announced 10 of the defenders were wounded and nine missing.

The pilot killed Wednesday, the 181st American to die in combat in Viet Nam, was Lt. Harold L. McNeil of Mount Pleasant, Tex. he was hit in the heart by a machine gun bullet while making a strafing run.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor combined an inspection tour and shirt-sleeve diplomacy on a flying visit to four communities in the 2nd Corps area north of Saigon, an area which would be among the first targets of any invasion from North Viet Nam.

The retired general clearly sought to demonstrate, by his presence, U.S. support for the war against the Viet Cong. His helicopter was escorted by four others armed with rockets and machine guns.

In Saigon, U.S. sources said non-Communist nations have committed about 1,000 military and civilian personnel to the Vietnamese war in response to President Johnson's "more flags appeal." Most should be here by early next year, when the United States contingent is expected to be about 20,000.

American sources said financial contributions from nations other than the United States may amount to about $100 million. The United States is spending about $600 million a year.

Girl Escapes Injury

GRAYVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A Farmington, Mo., teen-ager escaped injury Thursday when the single-engine plane she was flying flipped over during an emergency landing near here.

The pilot, Karen Marie Pingel, 17, told Illinois State Police she became lost en route from Farmington to Paducah, Ky. The plane overturned when she landed in a plowed field.

Appointment Represents Breakthrough

Indicates Church Does Not Think Color A Badge

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Prince A. Taylor is an articulate, 57-year-old clergyman who believes that his appointment as bishop of New Jersey's 200,000 Methodists represents a significant breakthrough for the denomination.

Bishop Taylor, a Negro, now heads the 95 per cent white Methodist congregations in the state.

"The very fact that I have been appointed a bishop," he said, "indicates that the Church doesn't feel that color is a badge of membership."

As a result of a realignment announced in June, 21 Negro churches will be admitted to the newly created New Jersey jurisdiction of the Methodist Church.

Bishop Taylor was appointed to head the denomination's more than 600 churches in New Jersey. He was the first Negro to be named a Methodist bishop in a predominantly white area.

The reception he has received from members of the church has been overwhelmingly favorable, Bishop Taylor said. He has received requests to speak before a number of local congregations—"More than I can possibly fulfill right now," he said.

A native of Hennessey, Okla., Bishop Taylor was the resident bishop of Liberia for eight years before his newest appointment. He has been in Princeton since July 21.

At the end of this month, he moves with his wife, Ann, to the home of a Princeton University faculty member who will be away on leave for a year.

Bishop Taylor said he believes his appointment may make it easier to carry Methodist integration a step farther — into the individual churches.

"I think Negro Methodists are taking advantage of the opportunities for integration already," he said. "But I think my appointment will make it more natural for them."

"We would like to see greater integration of individual churches. But much of it will depend on the encouragement of the Negroes are given."

On Reapportionment

House Ready For Action On Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Rules Committee, in a move its chairman called extraordinary, Thursday cleared for House action a bill that would strip the federal courts of jurisdiction over state reapportionment cases.

Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., who engineered the startling maneuver that caught supporters of the Supreme Court's reapportionment ruling flat-footed, won a 10-4 majority in his committee with his plea:

"This is an extraordinary action, but this is an extraordinary situation. If we don't get action during this session of Congress, the cause is lost."

Only in rare cases does the rules committee take a bill away from a legislative committee, as it did Thursday in taking from the judiciary committee a bill by Rep. William M. Tuck, D-Va. Tuck's bill would: "Take from the federal district courts jurisdiction 'to entertain any petition of complaint seeking to apportion or reapportion the legislature of any state in the union.'"

—Take from the Supreme Court the right to review the action of any federal district court or state supreme court dealing with state reapportionment.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the judiciary committee, charged the rules committee with "drastic and arbitrary" action in taking the Tuck bill away from his group.

As for the bill, Celler said: "If you take away jurisdiction over reapportionment today, tomorrow you can take away jurisdiction over civil rights and the next day over antitrust cases."

Clearing of the Tuck bill for floor action poses a problem for House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., who told reporters Thursday he is opposed to it.

Majority Leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., who faces a redistricting shuffle himself, is in favor of it, however, and it is doubtful McCormack will want to enter a fight with divided leadership.

It could also pose a problem

Military Maneuvers Announced

TOKYO (AP) — Large-scale military maneuvers were announced Thursday by Red China, which has pledged to stand beside Communist North Viet Nam "in repulsing any aggressor."

Radio Peking said the maneuvers are being conducted in Kwangtung and Fukien, adjoining provinces that rim the South China Sea from the Gulf of Tonkin through Formosa Strait.

Regular officers and soldiers were reported to be supervising the exercises of militiamen. It was not disclosed whether planes or heavy armaments were involved.

"Thousands of men in high spirits have undergone such military drills as shooting, throwing grenades, handling of explosives and crossing rivers," the station reported in a Japanese-language broadcast monitored in Tokyo.

Peking's emphasis on the military activity was a switch in propaganda that had been largely devoted to reporting civilian demonstrations against the United States and South Viet Nam since the Gulf of Tonkin showdown last week.

Making clear the connection with the retaliatory American air strike at North Viet Nam's PT boats and bases Aug. 5, the broadcast noted the announcement followed up a pledge by Foreign Minister Chen Yi that China would stand beside North Viet Nam in turning back any aggression.

Youth Nabbed In Robbery Try At Dawn

Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz filed charges of second degree burglary against Homer R. Robertson, 20, 114 East Jackson, in Magistrate Court Thursday. Robertson had been apprehended by Sedalia police early Thursday morning inside Bill Rissler's Tavern, Main and Osage. The charges were filed after the information gathered by Chief of Police William Miller was turned over to Prosecuting Attorney Fritz.

Police first learned of the possible break-in at 4:55 a.m. this morning when a passerby observed two fifths of whiskey on the sidewalk just outside the Osage Avenue entrance to the bar. The passerby notified police and when Patrolman A. L. Blankenship arrived he believed he observed the tavern door open and close quickly.

Thinking that someone was still in the tavern, Blankenship called for assistance and police blocked all exits from the establishment.

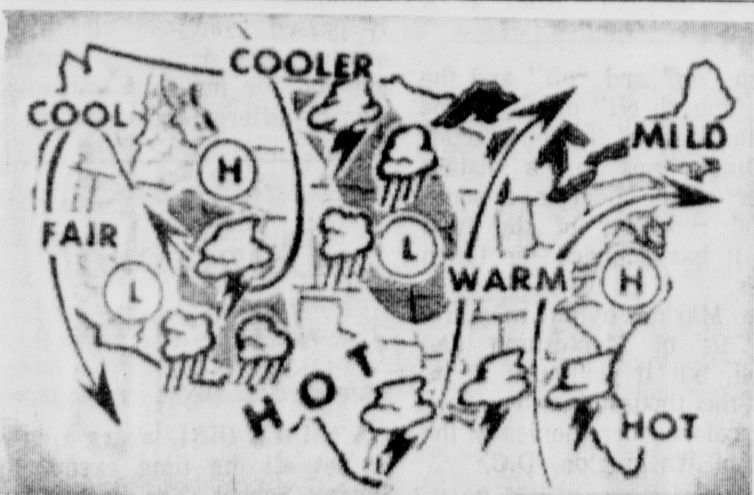

The Sedalia youth was taken into custody inside and police said an archery bow, four six-packs of beer and a box of cigars were found piled next to the Osage door as if in readiness to be carried away. Police said the youth had $21.55 in change in his pockets and officers believed this money was taken from the tavern also.

Robertson had been drinking, police stated. He is being held in the county jail.

Rissler's establishment has been the target of burglars and thieves two other times in recent weeks. One of those losses amounted to $300 and both cases are still unsolved.

Where Is Meeting Official?

Which came first, the chicken or the egg?

That old-time riddle might be applied to the current dilemma in Sedalia city council. Which comes first, as official legislation of that body — action taken on the council floor, or action taken at a meeting elsewhere?

The question was raised by Councilman Robert Bader at a recent session concerning action by a joint meeting in the Pettis County Court House of the County court, the mayor and councilmen. Agreement there was made to put Civil Defense on a part-time basis.

Councilman Bader still maintains that the city council should vote again on the council floor to make official the action taken off the floor. Also to be ironed out are some matters pertaining to the CD budget.

At the same meeting when this enigma was in the spotlight excessive humidity and noisy exhaust fans caused Councilman James Askren to suggest moving the meetings to some air-conditioned location. Because of poor acoustics, the city bills almost got approved for payment before they were read. Councilmen had been listening to officers' reports instead.

William R. Parkhurst offered to supply an air-conditioned room for the councilmen and no one can blame the men if they accepted, providing the heat wave lasts much longer.

Parenthetically, in the discussion, an observation was made that city ordinances apparently would not prohibit the council from meeting and transacting business elsewhere since only the meeting dates and starting time are mentioned.

If that is the case, and council can meet officially at other locations, then it might be assumed council's action on civil defense at the court house was proper.

Since no one knows for sure, the subject matter only provokes conjectural solutions. So if the city counselor would only come up with a ruling on this riddle, maybe hot air in the discussion of it would be lessened.

Councilmen then wouldn't be bothered by the heat and could stay right where they usually meet until arrangements are completed to move downstairs — a project now embryonic. Like an egg, perhaps? GHS

Washington Merry-Go-Round

U. S. Cattlemen Put LBJ in a Bind

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Johnson cabinet members were holding an informal, unadvertised luncheon the other day as its members frequently do, without bothering the president. Suddenly they got a phone call from the president.

He wanted Secretary of Agriculture Freeman to come to the White House immediately.

Reason was a snafu over the cattlemen's drive to curtail the import of Australian and New Zealand meat. This has the administration in a difficult bind between the cattlemen of the southwest and our best allies in the South Pacific.

It's the Australians who have given the United States its most loyal support in Viet Nam and every other Pacific crisis. Paradoxically, it's the big cattlemen and Goldwaterites who have been yelling the loudest about both action in Viet Nam and a ban on the meat imports of our allies.

What increased the embarrassment of the Johnson administration was that the Senate voted by a lopsided 72 to 15 to put import quotas on foreign beef, lamb, mutton, and other meat. Though our allies were not mentioned, the bill was aimed especially at them and would reduce their sales to the USA by half a billion pounds annually.

Significantly, these imports supply a major portion of the meat to the same class of people which President Johnson is trying to help through his anti-poverty program. It's Australian beef and New Zealand lamb which supply most of the hamburger and cheaper cuts of meat for the American people. Australian beef is butchered from grass-fed steers, whereas high-grade American beef is butchered from corn-fed and fattened steers.

This is why the administration has maintained that actually there is no conflict between U.S. beef and foreign imports and that curtailment of Australian beef would raise the price of meat to Americans who can least afford it.

We Love Mike

Despite this, the Senate zipped the quota bill through as if preparing to go off on a picnic.

Reason was very simple: Senators wanted to pay tribute to the Senate majority leader, Mike Mansfield, who comes from the big sheep and cattle raising state of Montana and who is up for re-election this year.

Everybody likes Mike, even the Republicans. So they gave him a meat vote of confidence, even at the expense of U.S. allies and of the depressed segment of the American population.

Complete circulation of the blood through the entire human body requires only about 60 seconds.

Senators did this, incidentally, by tacking the meat ban onto a bill previously passed by the House admitting elephants, leopards, snakes, lions, monkeys, flamingoes, and ostriches duty-free. In the end this duty-free provision was knocked out on a motion by Sen. Ken Keating, R-N.Y., who claimed that these animals, together with the circus and zoos who buy them, should pay their own way.

Many senators shouted approval of the meat quota because they figured the House of Representatives would undo their irresponsibility. Ordinarily senators consider themselves the responsible body of Congress. But when it comes to paying tribute to a colleague, it's another matter.

However, President Johnson now finds the House in no mood to undo the senators' jag. Sitting in the driver's seat in the House is able Rep. Carl Albert, the Democratic leader from Oklahoma, who loves Lyndon but also wants to get a Democratic slate elected this year. Also potent in the House is Rep. George Mahon from Lyndon's home state of Texas, where the Black Angus and the White Face roam.

They have prevailed on Speaker John McCormack to keep the Senate bill on his desk instead of referring it to the House Ways and Means Committee where it might be delayed, even blocked. McCormack comes from Boston where a large segment of the population consumes hamburgers and low-cost beef. In fact, a large part of Boston lives on fish. Nevertheless, John is inclined to play ball with his southwest colleagues who worship at the altar of the ex-Longhorn.

Ironically, hundreds of non-cattlemen — movie stars, sportsmen, even funeral directors — went into the cattle business after Congress gave cattle the benefit of a capital gains tax. This is the real reason why the cattle population has increased and the price of beef — on the hoof — is low. Ironically also, Goldwaterites are strong in the ranks of the cattlemen.

Politically, however, their lobby is terrific. And President Johnson, facing an election plus a crisis in Viet Nam where he needs Australian support, is in a difficult, embarrassing bind — thanks to the generous tribute the Senate wanted to pay Mike Mansfield.

Wilderness Bill Decision Is Near

By BENNETT WOLFE

WASHINGTON (AP) — After years of consideration and controversy, Congress is about to agree on something called the wilderness bill.

What's it all about? It is a bill that would provide for preservation of a vast system of wilderness areas in as nearly their natural state as possible. Soothing of men's souls is one of the objectives.

The stated purpose is to keep for present and future generations areas of unspoiled, pristine wilderness, unmarred by roads, buildings, automobiles or motorboats.

Systems of trails would provide access for hikers, mountain climbers, hunters, fishermen and — as Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, once put it in Senate debate — for "all those who find, in high and lonely places, a refreshment of the spirit and life's closest communion with God."

Only minor differences remain to be smoothed out between bills passed by both House and Senate before Congress sends the Wilderness Act of 1964 to the White House for President Johnson's certain approval.

What lands would be included in the system? Initially, more than 9 million acres of National Forest lands, principally in Wyoming, Montana, California, Idaho, New Mexico, Washington, Oregon, Arizona, Colorado, Minnesota and Nevada. An additional 5 million acres, including some forest lands in North Carolina and New Hampshire, may be added later.

Since the Forest Service, an agency of the Agriculture Department, now has control of the areas, why is the legislation needed? Because, in the words of Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., "such areas now enjoy only the protection of the secretary of agriculture, who at some future time could, by the stroke of the pen, remove all or part of such areas" from what protection they now enjoy.

What about commercial activities in the wilderness areas?

Provision is made for commercial services necessary "for activities which are proper for realizing the recreational or other wilderness purposes."

Who opposed the legislation? Such groups as livestock grazers, minerals prospectors, miners and loggers. They feared loss of rights to use of federal lands.

What of their rights under the Wilderness Act? Provision is made for such activities under controls designed to keep them compatible with preservation of the wilderness character.

'Stay-at-Hometitis' is No Problem for Our Women

By Ruth Millett

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

News item with a London dateline: "British doctors and psychiatrists are combating an ailment reported spreading among housewives — women who find themselves mentally unable to leave their homes without and the shakes."

Well, that's one ailment we don't have to worry about crossing the Atlantic and attacking the women of America.

If there's one thing that housewives in this country do at every opportunity it's GET OUT OF THE HOUSE.

The American woman's dread of being house-bound has resulted in the second car's becoming a modern day necessity; in the cult of togetherness that takes mama along where papa goes; in the spread of women's clubs and organizations that keep housewives on the go.

The American woman is so bent on avoiding cabin fever that she much prefers to meet with a group of women to hear a book review than to stay at home and read a book. She would rather go to a meeting of her garden club than weed her flower bed. She can't resist helping to form a ladies' auxiliary to any organization her husband belongs to, or a mother's club to any organization that interests one of her children.

It's not having to leave her house that gives the American housewife an attack of the weeps and the shakes. It's being forced by cruel circumstances — to remain house-bound for a week or two that gets her down.

There are probably husbands in this country who wouldn't mind if their wives did get a mild case of stay-at-hometitis. But they shouldn't get their hopes up. It can't happen here.

Marine Parades

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON — The United States Marine Corps treats Washington residents and visitors to two spectacular parades each Tuesday and Friday evening during the summer months. The Tuesday night performance is held in the shadow of two Jima monument overlooking the nation's capital from the northern end of Arlington Cemetery.

The scarlet coated Marine Drum and Bugle Corps, as well as the United States Marine Band, provide stirring musical background for both ceremonies.

The Friday evening performance is held on the parade ground of the Marine Barracks, the oldest post of the Marine Corps, which has been the residence of the Commandant since 1805. The site was selected by President Thomas Jefferson. These barracks have been the home of the Marine Band since 1801. The band was requested to play at the White House by President John Adams and the tradition has become so well established that it is now considered "the President's own" and plays at many official functions.

During the parade, at the sound of two bells, the barracks mascot, "Chesty II," a bulldog donated in 1961 by a Washington resident, is properly escorted under the floodlights. A high-light of the performance is the Silent Drill Platoon which performs intricate marching maneuvers and variations of the manual of arms without commands. The click of the guns and the tread of feet, with the flag waving in the background is a stirring sight. The colors

When the top one is full, I lift it off (dishes and all) and then fill the other one, using my cookie sheet as the extra drain-board. This gives me more time for draining and less for the dish towel.

I also use a bottle brush for washing drinking glasses, as one swish cleans them.—EDITH

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Pain's Location Only One Fact of Several

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.,
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Q — In a recent column you say that "the typical ulcer pain is localized with a finger tip." Does one press hard or lightly with the finger? I have a pain about four inches above the navel. Would that be from a stomach ulcer, my gall bladder, or an injured disc?

A — You don't press to locate a pain — you just point. If you have to press to elicit the pain we doctors would call it a point of tenderness rather than a pain. Your own pain could be that of a peptic ulcer, heartburn, gall bladder colic (although this is more commonly on the right side), pancreatitis, coronary heart disease, strain of the abdominal muscles from coughing, or possibly colitis, although in colitis the pain usually covers a wider area and shifts about.

So you can see that a doctor must know a great deal more about you than the fact that you have a certain type of pain before he can diagnose the cause of your trouble.

Q — My doctor says I have a floating kidney but that there isn't anything to do about it. He did say that it could easily become infected. What is a floating kidney and how will it affect my health?

A — Very little is written about floating kidney any more because it is a condition in which the kidney is not fixed and immovable but may slip up or down a short distance. It will not affect your health, but worrying about it will.

Q — My 17-year-old son was sent home from school with a rash. The doctor says he has infectious mononucleosis. What causes this? What are the symptoms? What is the difference between infection and contagious?

A — Infectious mononucleosis is a disease in which the mononuclear white blood cells are greatly increased in number. It is believed to be caused by an as yet unidentified virus. It is spread from person to person by close contact. In some victims there is a faint rash.

Other symptoms are fever; enlarged, tender lymph nodes, especially in the neck; and sore throat. Cortisone and related hormones or chloroquine are used in the treatment.

An infectious disease is one that is caused by a germ or virus. Not all such diseases are contagious, which means readily passed from one victim to another. The degree of contagion and the mode of transmission of different germs vary.

Changes On Missouri Farms Call for Safety Precautions

Farm Work Third Most Dangerous

By RALPH JONES

Missouri's changing agriculture scene, as reflected in the photo of a farmer behind a walking cultivator powered by a span of mules, compared to the modern machinery of today, indicates the farm safety factor has also changed, and in fact is becoming more and more important.

Back in the old days that some of us admittedly recall, about the only safety precautions we observed were to not smoke in the barn, stay away from behind a frisky mule, and to make sure we were not bitten, or kicked, or stepped on, by one of the farm animals.

But today the story is different.

"The modern farm is a comparatively safe place to live, but it remains a dangerous place to work," says C. E. Stevens, University of Missouri extension farm safety specialist.

Farming today ranks as the third most hazardous occupation, with only mining, including oil drilling, quarrying and construction have a higher accidental death rate. According to the National Safety Council, there were 8,700 farm residents killed in accidents in 1962, which is about the same for an average year. There were 800,000 disabling accidents among farm residents the same year.

With these figures in mind it is shown that work accidents, the smallest classification nationally, on the farm remain second only to motor vehicles accidents. Therefore, it is apparent that safety features and procedures developed in other industries, are as necessary on the farm as in other work if farm safety is to be brought into line with the rest of the nation.

Pettis County farmers and farmers in surrounding counties are making an extra effort to be sure their workers and families understand their jobs, and the proper, safe way to operate the equipment and machinery they handle throughout the year.

By far the tractor is involved in more farm power mishaps than any other piece of machinery, according to Safety Council figures. Each year there are about 50 people in Missouri killed in tractor accidents, and about ten of these people are under 14 years of age. These accidents are caused by poor judgment and lack of knowledge of how a tractor operates under various conditions.

Records show that automobile driver training has effectively reduced the accident rate among drivers who have received the training, so the University of Missouri Extension Service has adopted a program of tractor driver training among 4-H club members. Such a program is in operation in Pettis County.

In the tractor driving program the participants are taught the fundamentals of traction operation, with safety stressed throughout the program. Each year a county-wide contest in tractor driving is held, with the winner going on to represent the county in the state contest.

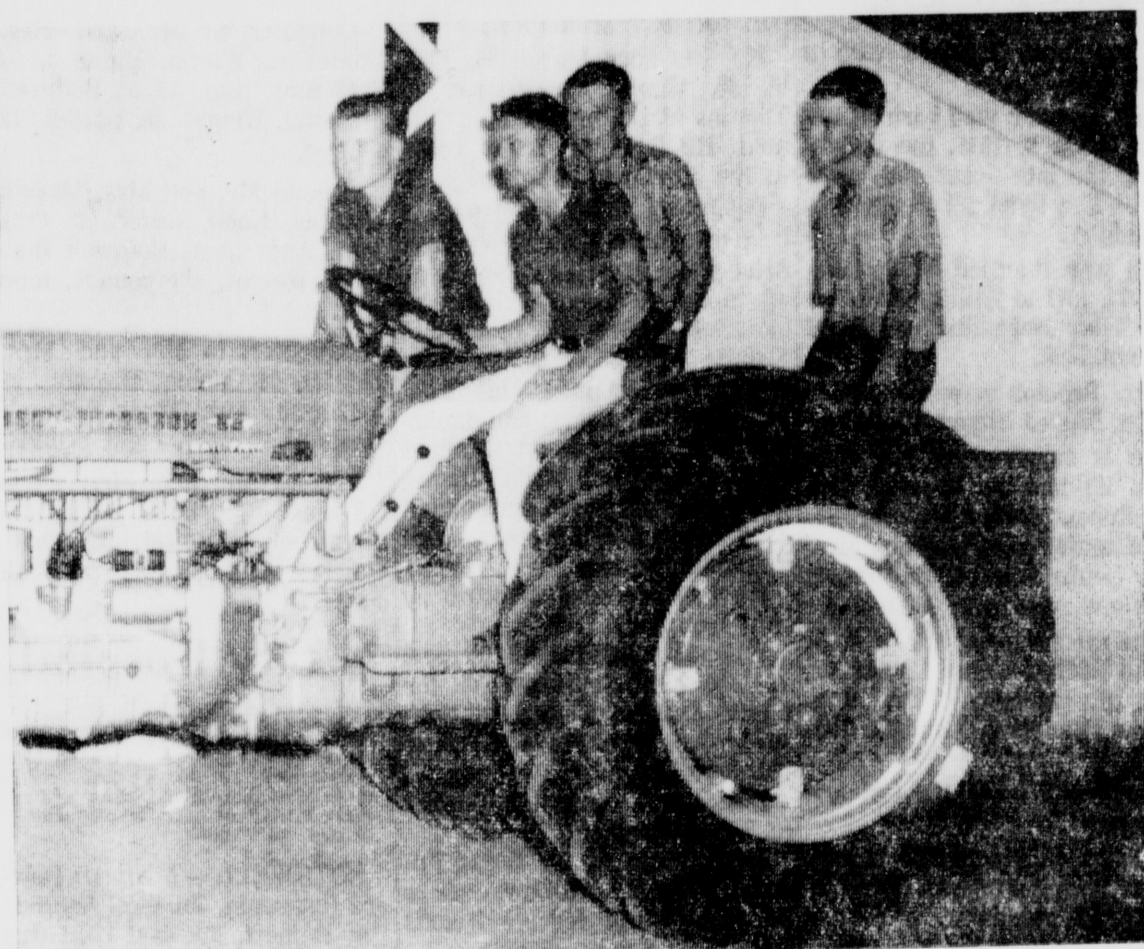

Under the various programs stressed in meetings, clubs and by pamphlet, farmers and their families are reminded of other farm hazards, and shown how to prevent accidents due to these hazards.

The bicycle improperly ridden is a hazard, both to the rider and vehicular traffic. Electrical equipment can cause serious accidents and deaths. Pamphlets pointing out the dangers involved in electrical equipment are available. Fire is always a danger around gasoline, hay barns and other farm buildings. In the over-all picture, farmers are being taught to recognize hazards, and how to correct these hazards, in hopes that the farm accident rate can be reduced through education.

lesson from Walt Disney. He's three-fifths finished with his programs for the coming season, which doesn't start until Sept. 20.

The 1964-65 season is a special one for Disney — his 10th. His shows, first on ABC and now in color on NBC, have always reflected taste, quality and variety. The selection next year will continue to be varied, with accent on original, multichapter films.

"Of the 25 shows, we'll have about five nature films, two feature movies, two cartoon shows and the rest three and four-part story films," said Walt. "There's a reason for doing films in three or more parts. We put more time and bigger budgets into our shows than most television producers do."

"We believe in getting more action and bigger backgrounds for our stories, not just shoot them against a wall. We can justify the expense when we use sets for three or four shows. For instance, I had a whole Philadelphia street in the '90s built for 'Gallagher,' a story about a newspaper copy boy written by Richard Harding Davis."

Walt doesn't like to be pressed by deadlines. Hence 15 of the year's product of 24 hours is filmed.

"And we've got nature photographs out in the field shooting subjects for 1965 and 1966," he added.

As host of the series, Walt must spend some of his time as an actor. "There's some ham in all of us," he admitted. "I can shoot about five introductions in a day, and I find the work fun. It gives me a chance to get away from everything else for a day."

He tries to work animals into his act, and the results are often unexpected. For the lead-in to the show of "Nicki, Wild Dog of the North," he put a bunch of baby dogs, cats, guinea pigs, possums and skunks in a cage to show young animals don't harm each other as long as they're not hungry. Someone suggested adding chicks and ducklings, and this was done.

BRUSH HOG—This "brush hog," actually a giant power mower, is one of the most dangerous pieces of equipment on the farm of Eldon DeMott. Powered by a tractor, it mows down small trees, throws rocks, dirt and any other material the blade picks up. Above, DeMott points out some of the things not to do. Never get too close. The blade shown could cut off a foot. It's really a brute.

Record 6 Months Racked Up By Insurance Firms

David Eisenstein, local general agent for Mutual of Omaha and United of Omaha, announced a record breaking first six months for both companies.

A total of over $1,931,000,000 in benefits was reached as of June 30, 1964, marking an all-time high in payments to Mutual of Omaha policyholders. "This reflects a 12.51 per cent increase in benefits payments in the first six months of 1964, compared to the same period in 1963.

He added that the company's premium income reached $157,680,000 thus far this year—a $11 million increase over the same period last year.

United of Omaha recorded a 64 per cent increase in applied-for life insurance business for a six-month period ending June 30. With more than $297 million of life insurance issued the first half of 1964, United now has a total of in-force life insurance of $3.5 billion.

Local agents for both companies in this area are: Frank Brosch, Burris Carter, Mrs. Mary Hoffman Harlan, Harold L. Silberstein, Mrs. Lily E. Thomas, all of Sedalia; Roy M. Maddux of Stover, and Mrs. Frances Riley of Knob Noster.

FOR ROAD TRAVEL—Chester Wissman, who drives and auto thousands of miles per year, always displays a red flag on farm equipment moving on the highway. He pulls off the highway for auto traffic whenever possible. "Few drivers realize the top speed of a tractor is some 12 miles per hour. Compared to an auto or truck moving 70 miles an hour, this is like standing still," he explains. Wissman recommends all car drivers consider farm machinery on the highway as standing, and slow down as soon as the machinery is sighted. He also recommends farm equipment be kept off the highway if possible, and if not, the driver should pull off the highway and allow speedier traffic to pass.

DANGEROUS—This photo shows both safe and unsafe practices. For safety the power take-off connecting the mowing blade to the tractor is properly covered. The two children, John DeMott and Stanley Dayton, should never be permitted near the blade. Their parents have taught them to stay away from the blade but were permitted to inspect the mower for the photo.
